

Wellness Tip of the Week

with the Area Agency on Aging District 7

Listen Better

The most important communication tool is listening. Try to listen to understand rather than listening to respond. Listen to the tone of the person you are speaking with and observe their body language to help you understand more about what they are communicating beyond just words. Listening helps us develop relationships, build trust and understand others more.