Jackson Residents Complete “A Matter of Balance”

Seven Jackson area residents recently completed the A Matter of Balance falls management workshop presented by the Area Agency on Aging District 7 (AAA7). The workshop, conducted with the assistance of the Jackson City Library, was open to individuals 60 years of age and older and focused on changing common misconceptions regarding falls. The workshop helped teach attendees skills to promote self-confidence, exercises to help improve balance, skills to increase physical strength, problem solving, and assertiveness.

The workshop is an evidence-based program developed by Boston University to help reduce the fear of falling and increase the activity levels of older adults. A Matter of Balance has demonstrated injury reduction and cost savings. According to STEADY U Ohio, in Ohio, falls are the leading cause of injury-related hospitalization and death among Ohioans age 65 and older. One in three older Ohioans will fall this year with the estimated cost of falls (medical and lost work) in Ohio at over $1.8 million a day.

Of the participants in A Matter of Balance, 96 percent have reported they have made changes in their homes to improve safety, 97 percent are more comfortable in talking about their fear of falling, 99 percent plan to continue to exercise after the workshop and 99 percent would recommend the workshop to their friends and family. After completing the course, participants have noted, “I am exercising more”, “I am being more aware of my surroundings”, and “The class was very informative and very good for older adults, more people should attend.”

For more information about upcoming classes in the area, please call the AAA7 at 1-800-582-7277, extension 247 (Breanna Williams) or extension 284 (Carla Cox).
