

This I know how the years go!

This is me, I know what I want to be and what I should be! My statements, my attitude, my personality define me. My parents taught me at an early age of JESUS, and on HIM I believe!

My childhood, pleasant, playful, pouting, sometimes I was bad, most times I was good.

My younger years was rush to school, rush to work, sometimes late, always alert. GOD has always been with me, even if I acted like a jerk!

When I became 18 years of age, I did a Jonah, and I ran from GOD, and ran away from home. Not long I knew I was wrong for I was without peace, and had no song.

My middle age years brought me many tears, but children are the reasons for enjoying life while I am here.

My golden years are here and almost over and my hair silver. I've went through the Bible several times. I've gained friends of all kinds, and in all my problems I did find that GOD was always on my mind! But I'm still on the go, watching the road, most of all, blessings flow, love, peace, and joy I experience comes from the Saviour that I know!
